

Because myWell-Being matters...

Vote for the 2013 Face of myWell-Being

What are the "Faces of myWell-Being?"

The Hershey Company defines well-being as "the state of being happy, healthy and/or prosperous." Read the "Faces of myWell-Being" profiles to find out what well-being means to your colleagues, how they incorporate wellness and fun into their everyday lives, and be inspired by their "myWell-Being journeys" and wellness advice.

If you read the "Faces" profiles, you know that your colleagues are in many different stages of their journey. Some are at the very beginning. Others have hit their first goals and are now working on new goals. All will tell you that the journey never ends; you find new, exciting roads to travel and new well-being goals to set for yourself.

Vote for the 2013 Face of myWell-Being

This year, seven employees shared their myWell-Being journey stories.

Whose story inspired you to make changes in your life or helped you discover a Hershey benefit you didn't know about?

To recognize our Faces of myWell-Being for helping Hershey build a well-being culture, each "Face" will receive a US$25 gift card. In addition, one employee will be named the 2013 Face of myWell-Being and receive a US$250 gift card.

Vote for the 2013 Face of myWell-Being by December 13, 2013. Look for the 2013 Face of myWell-Being winner's announcement in January 2014.

Read the employee profiles on the Faces of myWell-Being page or use the links on the voting site.

How to be a Face of myWell-Being

More "Faces" are needed. Do you have a myWell-Being journey to share or do you know someone who does? The process is simple. Complete a simple questionnaire, provide a digital photo and/or video and return to Jamie McGlaughlin. *Volunteering to be a Face of myWell-Being is open to colleagues in all countries.*